Syrian photographer and artist Hrair Sarkissian's practice draws on personal narratives, collective memory and trauma in evocative, poignant projects that discuss local and wider social and historical issues. He earned his foundational training at his father's photographic studio in Damascus. Spanning photography, moving image, sculpture, sound and installation, Sarkissian's practice creates meditative dreamscapes in some moments; deathscapes in others—sites where the muted voice, absent from the frame, is temporarily offered space to breathe. He was recently shortlisted for this year's Deutsche Börse Prize for his 2022-23 exhibition The Other Side of Silence at Bonnefanten Museum in Maastricht.

3.35 pm:      End note and summary of the symposium: Dr Sara Andersdotter
